

SARA LIBERTE

The Stuff Dreams Are Made Of

BY JAMES A. MOORE ■ PHOTOGRAPHY: SARA LIBERTE

There are women in this world who make you wonder what happened to stereotypes. Sara Liberte comes to mind. To start with, she's gorgeous: blond hair, a great figure, and a 1,000-watt smile. How can that be a bad thing, I ask you. But that's just the beginning, ladies and gentlemen. In addition to looks that would make a lot of models envious, she also has more talent than should be able to fit into five people her size. Not only does she co-own and run North Hills Cycle, a custom bike shop near Pittsburg, with her partner Ron Tonetti, she is also working on her first book and is an exceedingly talented photographer. Don't take my word for it — look at the pictures she was nice enough to provide for HOT BIKE.

Talent and perseverance: what a lovely combination. As an added bonus, she's as pleasant to speak with as she, her custom bikes, and her photos are to look at. She took a little time recently to answer a few questions for me. Just for grins, I even put the answers on paper, so other people could hear what she had to say.
